Spelling Bees Scheduled By Local Schools

The Kentucky Education Association will sponsor its annual "KEA President's Spelling Bee" for student in grades four through eight.

Each local education association will sponsor a system wide contestant who will participate in a district contest. The winner of this event will advance to the state finals.

The top three winners will receive $100 for first place, $50 for second place, and $25 for third place in the form of United States Savings bonds. The winners will be presented at the annual KEA Delegate Assembly.

In Murray City Schools, the local representative will be determined by a systemwide contest to be held Friday, Feb. 17, at 12:30 p.m. in the Murray Middle School auditorium. The public is invited to attend the event, a school spokesman said.

Homeroom winner from Murray School include Ross James, Kay Farley, Jon Bollington, Russell Garland, Teresa Ford, David Randolph, Mike Wilkins, Matthew Ferguson, Tim Lackey, Joey Ashby, Melinda Shepherd, David Whitten, Julie Baker, Lisa Mikulick, Doug Tutt, Lisa Harrison, Clay Francis, Sharlisa Ford, William Smith, Jeff Miller, Teresa Suiter, Huang Dinh, Laura Cella, Mark West, Debbie Ross, and Susan Jones.

The Calloway County School System will have its systemwide contest on Saturday, Feb. 18, at 9 a.m. at the office of the Calloway County Board, College Farm Road. Betty Riley, English teacher at Calloway County High School, will pronounce the words.

Contestants from each of three elementary centers determined in a contest with winner from each home room will be as follows: East, Marie Brantley, eighth grade; Southwest, Lisa Holsapple, fourth grade; North, Rema Peeler, seventh grade.

Charges Against Garland Dropped

PADUCAH — U.S. Federal District Judge Edward H. Johnstone has signed and entered an order in U.S. District Court for the Western District here dismissing a federal indictment against Murray used car dealer Eerie Garland.

Judge Johnstone signed the order on Feb. 3 and entered it in federal court Feb. 6.

The federal grand jury had returned an indictment against Garland on Nov. 21, 1977, charging him with having two or more declarations under oath which were inconsistent.

According to court records, the substance of the grand jury charge was that Garland had made a statement before the grand jury in November, 1977, which was inconsistent with an affidavit previously given by him in a civil action in federal court at Louisville relating to the altering of an automobile odometer in December, 1972, and January, 1973.

Judge Johnstone, in his memorandum opinion accompanying the order of dismissal, noted that the indictment was fatally defective for failure to allege the necessary elements of the offense charged.

GIRL SCOUT COOKIE SALE—Cassandra Spurlock sells a box of Girl Scout cookies to Murray Mayor Melvin Henley to start the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale in Murray and Calloway County. The sales will start officially on Saturday, Feb. 18, and will sell for $1.25 per box with six different varieties being available. Proceeds from the annual fund raising event will go for the Bear Creek Girl Scout Council of which the Murray and Calloway county scouts are a part.

Coal Strike Negotiators Resume Meetings Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Labor Secretary Ray Marshall acting as mediator and President Carter as a prod, negotiators for coal mine owners and the United Mine Workers union resumed face-to-face meetings today in an effort to end a 73-day-old strike that has become increasingly disruptive to the nation's economy.

Marshall sat at a long conference table in the Labor Department with the union bargaining team on his left and representatives of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association on his right. Chief federal mediator Wayne Horvitz and other aides also were on hand.

None made any comment before reporters and photographers were ushered from the room. Marshall has said earlier he expected the talks to be "almost continuous."

Today's session marked the first full-scale negotiations since the UMW bargaining council rejected a tentative contract settlement worked out 10 days ago.

The ground rules for the renewed talks were worked out a White House session Wednesday night called at Carter's behest. That session marked the first nighttime labor talks at the executive mansion in a decade.

Officials said the session, which lasted slightly more than an hour, went smoothly. However, sources who asked not to be identified emphasized that large differences remain.

United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller also expressed satisfaction Wednesday night and said he was "most anxious to get down to business." Asked whether he believes industry bargainers are ready to do the same, he replied, "they don't have any choice."

Industry officials left the meeting without talking to reporters.

Hardin Man Charged With Eagle Shooting

A 19-year-old Hardin man, Ronnie Dale Nanney has been released on a recognizance bond in connection with the killing of a bald eagle last November in Marshall County.

Albert Jones, the U. S. attorney for the Federal District Court in Paducah is expected to file a bill of direct information in coming days against Nanney.

Nanney appeared before federal magistrate John Dixon in Hopkinsville Tuesday and was released on a $1,000 bond.

The man is charged with shooting an American bald eagle Nov. 18 between Jonathan Creek and Aurora near Kentucky Lake.

Killing an eagle, a federal offense under the Eagle Protection Act, carries a maximum sentence of one year in prison and/or a $5,000 fine on conviction. Under federal legislation the offense is classified a misdemeanor.

According to reports, the U. S. attorney has the option in such misdemeanor cases of seeking a federal grand jury indictment or prosecuting directly by filing a statement of direct evidence.

Robert Standish, a special agent with U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service signed the complaint against Nanney, according to reports. Also, a juvenile has been implicated in the case, but no charges were filed as of Tuesday.

TVA Asks For 20% Cutback In Power Use

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hoping to delay layoffs of up to 150,000 industrial workers, the Tennessee Valley Authority has asked its 2½ million customers to cut their use of electricity by 20 percent.

The government utility also began buying coal from the West and firming plans for a mandatory 30 percent power cutback to industry to reduce the drain on its strike-depleted stockpiles.

The appeal to consumers was issued Wednesday. Officials said it could push the mandatory 30 percent reductions back to the second week of March. The forced curtailment must be approved by TVA's three-member board of directors, meeting a week from today.

Al Daniels, TVA's power utilization manager, estimated the forced cutback to industries in the seven states TVA supplies with power will put between 100,000 and 150,000 workers off their jobs.

Before the call for the voluntary conservation efforts and the purchase of 225,000 tons of Western coal this week, TVA officials said the cutbacks could be necessary before the end of February.

As part of the 20 percent voluntary reduction, TVA asked all consumers to lower thermostats to at least 65 degrees and asked industries to reduce to 50-55 degrees in active work areas.

Residential customers were asked to wash and dry clothes and wash dishes less often with larger loads, spend less time in the shower and cook fewer hot meals.

Commercial customers were asked to cut indoor and outdoor lighting and consider closing early. Spokesman John Van Mol said states and cities will be asked to reduce street lighting.

TVA made a similar appeal during a four-week UMW strike in 1974. But the agency had only 4 million tons of coal stockpiled then and the call for conservation was issued as soon as that strike began.

TVA had a total stockpile of 1.9 million tons, roughly a 25-day supply, at 10 of its 12 coal-fired power plants on Wednesday. The agency had more than 12 million tons stockpiled, a 117-day supply, when the United Mine Workers went on strike 10 weeks ago.

The 30 percent curtailment to industries receiving 500 kilowatts of power or more is the first step in TVA's emergency plan. The average home uses about 15 kilowatts.

Next would be a similar forced reduction to stores and homes followed by an even larger — 50 percent — cutback to industry. Rotating blackouts among all consumers, excluding some emergency facilities, is the fourth and final step.

Van Mol said there has been no evidence that coal producers still operating are now gouging utilities on the spot market as they did in 1974, when the price of coal more than doubled in some instances.

However, officials said the price for a ton of average quality coal on the spot market has jumped from $20-$23 to $27-$30 in the past three weeks.

Gas Customers Asked To Cut Back Thermostats

Murray Mayor Melvin B. Henley today issued a plea to customers of the Murray Natural Gas system to cut back thermostats in an effort to conserve natural gas.

"We're not in a critical situation like we were last year," Henley said, "but unless we get some warmer weather we will have an overrun (of the city's natural gas allotment)."

The system was faced with an overrun of some 55,000 mcf (thousand cubic feet) of gas in the winter of 1977 but a voluntary conservation effort on the part of gas system customers greatly reduced that overrun.

The system faces a penalty of $10 per mcf on all gas consumed above the city's allotment for the winter period which ends March 1.

Henley said that local industrial use of natural gas has already been curtailed and requested that residential users cut back their thermostats to at least 68 degrees from now until March 1.

"The industrial curtailment will bring us back in line to some extent," Henley said, "but we need to ask the people to start conserving now so we do not end up with a problem."

"The Natural Gas System is owned by the people of the community," the mayor added, "and that ownership involves the fruits as well as the problems."

"It will be to the customers' advantage to conserve gas through February and March because any penalties charged to the system for an overrun will have to be passed along to the consumer," Henley added.

CHRISMAN HONORED — H. Ed Chrisman (center) of Murray has been honored by the Four Rivers Boy Scout Council by being selected to receive the Silver Beaver Award, the highest honor awarded by the Boy Scouts of America to its volunteer leaders. Chrisman is congratulated by Edward R. Golinski (left) Calvary City, new president of the council executive board and Jim Brockenborough, retiring council president. Also named to the honor with Chrisman was John Williams of Paducah, who was out-of-town at the time of the awards ceremony.

Contributions To Hurt Scholarship Top $11,000

Contributions to the Max B. Hurt Scholarship fund at Murray State University as a perpetual recognition of the 1927 alumnus and prominent community leader have passed the $11,000 mark.

Joe Dick, chairman of a 20-member fund drive committee, said "the outstanding progress of the effort is an indication of the esteem with which Max Hurt is held by friends and neighbors." He added that donations are still being accepted to support the honorary scholarship.

Guidelines for the award are scheduled to be released by the Alumni Association at Murray State on Feb. 25. Hurt, a member of the second graduating class at Murray State, continues to make his home on the farm in the Kirksey area where he was born. His farm is one of the largest cattle and grain operations in West Kentucky.

In addition to his involvement in countless alumni activities through the years, he has served as a teacher, assistant postmaster, executive secretary and president of the Chamber of Commerce, Methodist layman, bank director, insurance executive, and civic leader.

During his tenure as assistant postmaster in Murray, Hurt reorganized and extended the Rural Free Delivery. Later, as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, he was instrumental in getting Tappan to locate a plant in Murray. He also led in planning and promoting the development of Kenlake State Park at Aurora and was one of the organizers of WNBS Radio in Murray.

Hurt rose to prominence in the insurance world as national treasurer and then executive vice-president of the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society. He retired in 1962.

He has served as a director of the Bank of Murray 45 years and as board secretary for 35 years.

Hurt, who has been married to his high school sweetheart, Vera Mavis McCuiston, some 57 years, was presented the Good Scout Award by the Four Rivers Council of the Boy Scouts of America in 1976.

A portion of the salute to him in the program on that occasion gives some indication of the appropriateness of a scholarship to honor him. It reads:

"Few men have made more contributions to their fellowman and to the betterment of the communities in which they live than has Max B. Hurt. It would take a book to list them all."

Murray & Calloway Chapters Of FHA Plan Special Events

CHAPTER VALENTINE QUEEN—The Gamma Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi has selected Mrs. Linda Rogers as their 1978 Valentine Queen. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Shelton of Murray. She and her husband, Andy, and their two children, Lori, age eight, and Greg, age eleven, reside on South 16th Street. She works part time at the Murray State University Bookstore and attends the memorial Baptist Church. Her hobbies include macrame and camping, and she and her family are members of the Twin Laker Good Sam Camping Club. Mrs. Rogers has been a very active member of Beta Sigma Phi for six years, has served in several offices including president and vice-president, and is currently serving as corresponding secretary. She has also received several previous honors including Girl of the Year award. She is also serving as vice-president of the Murray Middle School Parent-Teacher Organization. Mrs. Rogers and her husband were the guests of honor at a chapter dinner at Park Terrace Restaurant, Fulton, on Feb. 11.

This week February 12-18, has been designated by the National Organization of Future Homemakers of America as National FHA Week, which is also Vocational Education Week.

During this week special emphasis is interpreting FHA as an integral part of the home economics program will be given by the various chapters over the state.

Murray High Chapter has scheduled numerous activities for the week including spot radio announcements, news articles, proclamation announcing FHA Week with the mayor and Danna Shipley, president of the MHS Chapter, and Tena Eldridge, president of the Calloway County High School Chapter. Also, as part of the week special valentines were sent to the homes of senior citizens on February 14. They have also chosen valentine sweethearts at Westview Nursing Home and special valentine gifts were door decorations to make each resident's day a little brighter.

Calloway County High Chapter planned activities interpret FHA and promote interest in FHA as to encourage members to attend the church of their choice, carry out an activity as a good family member, to help elderly people in the community, dress up in the colors of FHA, observe teacher appreciation day, and do a community service.

As part of their national Impact Project they have chosen to prepare emergency layettes for possible future disaster victims.

Membership is approximately 448,914 in 11,888 chapters in the United States, the District of Columbia,

Puerto Rico, and American schools overseas. Kentucky membership for 1976-77 is 15,236 in 245 chapters. This includes nine HERO Chapters. FHA member's beliefs about the way they work are as follows:

Every individual counts, and has a special contribution to make to the chapter.

Through group cooperation, the chapter can achieve many goals that as individual cannot.

Teen-age members and adults can work together, each gaining from the other.

The FHA Scholarship Fund has been sponsored each year since 1949. At the State meeting in April 1977, the Vaugh-Williamson Scholarship of $500 and 12 scholarships of $400, each including the Carl Perkins Scholarship were awarded to FHA members who had made contributions to the organization and who are studying home economics in a college in Kentucky.

The Murray High FHA will contribute to the State Scholarship Fund by participating in the Mardi Gras, February 25 at MHS. They will furnish cakes and operate the cake walk booth. Chairman of this event is Lisa Wallin.

The 1977-78 officers for the Murray High FHA Chapter this year include: Danna Shipley, president; Delaine Honchul, 1st vice-president; Jane Ann Turner, 2nd vice-president; Dana Mansfield, secretary; Karen Bailey, treasurer; Belinda Suiter, parliamentarian; Gena Lovett, reporter; Becky West, recreation leader; Terri McCord, song leader; Delores Honchul, devotion leader; Susan Crass, honor roll chairman; and Sharon Whaley, scholarship chairman.

The 1977-78 officers for Calloway County High School FHA Chapter this year include: Tena Eldridge, president; Charlotte Coursey, first vice president; Joy Kelsö, second vice president; Sharon Walker, secretary; Jane Greer, treasurer; Linda McCuiston, reporter; Jackie Miller, historian; Dawn Sled, parliamentarian; Karon Walker, song leader; Susan Byars, recreational leader; Pam Sills, devotion leader.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

A fruitful day indicated, but your returns may not be quite as great as you expect. Remain composed and ready to shift to a lower gear in expectations — for the present at least.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Aim for early accomplishment, planned in your usual orderly fashion, but do not reject the novel or the unfamiliar without due consideration.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

You will now face competition expected and unexpected. You usually relish a challenge, but be careful not to under- or overestimate opponents.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

The cool-headed approach in all matters will bring better results than the driving one. Your fine skills and talents are due for recognition soon.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be the deciding factors. Think before acting!

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A broad new concept of your job is in the making, which you should strive to understand. Consultation with persons who have bright, workable ideas could help change your strategies.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Care needed in travel, finances and job matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 23)

Demonstrate your abilities in a tactful manner, bearing in mind that some may not see eye to eye with you. In the long run, however, they WILL come around to your point of view.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 24 to Dec. 21)

Present influences indicate some obstacles — not insurmountable, but annoying unless you retain your sense of humor — AND patience.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Anchor to a well-organized program. Do not expose yourself to needless precarious action, or make foolish compromises, to be later regretted. Heads up!

New Deal For Doctors

President Carter should shrug off those howls of indignation he's been hearing and push ahead with his plan to change the way medical education is financed in this country.

Carter, in this 1979 budget, says he wants to cut off direct federal aid to schools that train doctors, dentists, nurses, druggists and other health professionals and offer more scholarships and loan guarantees to deserving students instead.

The point is there no longer is an overall shortage of doctors. The medical schools are turning out plenty of them. Where federal funds are needed now is to help medical students willing to serve later in the armed forces or in medically neglected communities.

The proposal to cut off direct federal help to medical schools is bound to encounter strong opposition since many of the schools count on the U. S. aid to balance their budgets.

But it would seem proper to end the use of federal money for indiscriminate subsidization of young men and women who will become highly paid health professionals clustering in the affluent suburbs of major cities.

If Congress goes along with Carter's plan — which is far from certain — it would put pressure on medical schools to raise their tuitions, or, in some cases to seek more money from the states.

Most important, though, it would re-emphasize the public service aspects of medical education, which too often get lost in the scramble by young doctors to set up a lucrative practice in a comfortable place to live.

William Proxmire Loves His Job As A U.S. Senator

There is no question about it: William Proxmire enjoys being a United States senator. The Wisconsin Democrat, who hasn't missed a Senate roll call since 1967, was on the Murray State campus for a few hours Tuesday night, and he appeared to love every minute of it.

The center section of spacious Lovett Auditorium was well filled for his scheduled Insight Series lecture, but there were lots of empty seats, reflecting, possibly, the apathy of the community for such events. It's a shame, too, because people like the senator who come to the campus regularly are interesting to meet and understand. More of you should have seen and heard him.

Earlier, Proxmire, who has been a senator since 1957, spent an hour and a half slumped in a chair in a corner of Farouk and Deann Umar's pretty home in Gatesborough attentively fielding questions from some 25 students and faculty gathered there for an informal dinner visit with him before the lecture.

He had come to Murray from New Orleans where he had spoken at the Tulane Law School. From here, he was going to Wichita, Kan., by way of St. Louis for an appearance last night, and tonight he is in Houston, Tex., before heading back to his Washington office.

It was quickly apparent that the senator wasn't trying to impress Johnny Carson of anyone else with his style of dress. His brown suit was rumpled from cramped hours in airline seats, and his black shoes didn't match the suit. Against the 29-degree weather he was wearing a waist-length, brown leather, fleece lined jacket. He wore no hat.

While balancing his dinner plate on his knees and formulating his replies between bites, he answered a steady barrage of questions in such areas as the coal strike, women's lib, federal aid for students, Social Security and the arms race with Russia.

On the personal side, he laughingly discussed his famous physical fitness program. He runs five miles a day, and has since 1967. His book, "You Can Do It," urges us all to do the same. "I used to walk a mile and a half and then catch the bus," he said. "Then one day I decided to walk all the way. I beat the bus. That's when I started running." He looks like a dedicated jogger, too — about 5' 10", trim as a rail and weighing about 145 pounds.

It was his "Golden Fleece Award," however, that he seemed to enjoy talking about the most. This he gives every month to the government agency which he feels is doing the most flagrant job of wasting taxpayers' money in senseless grants and spending. His February award is being announced today from his Washington office. He politely declined Tuesday to tell us what it will be.

The one for January went to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for the two million dollars it spent trying to develop a crime prevention and detection automobile, equipped with every kind of electronic gadget known to man. "Why," he exclaimed, "there wasn't even room for a driver!" The project has since been scrapped.

Another had gone to the Institute of Alcohol Abuse for its $194,000 study to determine if sunfish who drink tequila, the fiery Mexican drink made from mescal, are more aggressive than sunfish who had been given gin.

He called that one his favorite, but, it being Valentine's Day, he couldn't resist reference to the one given the National Science Foundation for a $98,000 grant to find out why people fall in love. "I don't even want to know!" he laughed. "That's one of the beautiful mysteries of life. Let's keep it that way."

He brought a roar of laughter from his audience when he touched on still another, a $27,000 study to determine "why inmates was to escape prison."

A hard-driving campaigner, Proxmire keeps close to his people. He carried all of Wisconsin's 72 counties to win re-election to be the Senate in 1970 and again in 1976. He is in his fourth term.

He writes and mails a newsletter to 100,000 constituents every month, and makes frequent trips to his home state, talking with his people in super markets, shopping centers and where they work. An enthusiastic hand-shaker, he has shaken more than three million hands in his day, as many as 2,000 in a day.

Only recently, he worked for a day on a garbage truck in New York to learn first-hand the collectors' concerns. On another occasion, he worked a day in a foundry in Fond du Lac, Wisc., for the same reason. You can get a lot of grass roots feeling like that, he said. The young heads nodded agreement.

Asked to comment on the recent news that at least 40 congressmen will not seek re-election because they have become disenchanted with life and work in the Congress, he replied by strongly emphasizing that he considers his Senate seat "a marvelous job."

"I would rather be a member of the United States Senate than to have any other job I know of," he said. "Sure, it's a job that put a strain on family relations, and often your constituents seem harsh and unfair, but sea in both the Senate and the House always will be jobs people aspire to."

There is no doubt that he reishes his, and one of the most enjoyable aspects it affords is the opportunities he has to meet face to face with people — be it at home in Wisconsin or on campuses like Murray State. He loves it.

Young Leon Spinks made history last night when he took the heavyweight boxing crown from Muhammad Ali.

Ali, who admitted in the dressing room following the fight that he had underestimated Spinks, says he will fight again and is looking forward to a rematch with the new champion. The only thing in the way of that rematch is that the World Boxing Council says it has a contract, signed by both Ali and Spinks before last night's fight, that the winner must meet Ken Norton without any intervening fight.

Even though the judges' scores on the match were a little closer than our own, we felt the decision went the way it should have, in spite of it being a split decision.

Here's the way we scored it:

Round One — Spinks punching quite a bit but not landing many solid blows on the heavier Ali. Ali covered his face while leaning on the ropes much of the round with the exception of a few spurts of dancing. Spinks' Round.

Round Two — Ali came out pawing and jawing but neither fighter was accomplishing very much. Spinks was able to force Ali to the ropes a couple of times but Ali avoided any damage. Even.

Round Three — Ali was dancing more but still covering his face in defense. Spinks was able to avoid a brief Ali flurry but again, neither fighter outscored the other. Even.

Round Four — Ali stayed in his defensive position while Spinks continued to throw strong but ineffectual punches. Ali went on the attack at one point but Spinks quickly drove him back to the ropes. Spinks' Round.

Round Five — Spinks began applying more pressure than in earlier rounds and following one good left Ali staggered back in his patented "phony baloney" routine. Midway through the round Ali began boxing more against the younger Spinks but Spinks recovered well, landing more blows of his own. Even.

Round Six — This round began with a lot of wild punching from both fighters and the more experienced Ali was the one who seemed to be landing more solid blows. But Spinks countered well and overcame Ali's rope-a-dope tactics. Spinks' Round.

Round Seven — Spinks showed early signs of tiring but came back strong in the latter part of the round. Both fighters connected with some good jabs but Ali seemed more in control and making better contact. Ali's Round.

(If you're keeping up we had it three for Spinks, one for Ali and three even at this point.)

Round Eight — Spinks came back strong after looking tired in the early going. Spinks' Round.

Round Nine — Spinks still looked tired but was able to get in some strong jabs. Ali meanwhile, went more on the offensive and his strong leads gave him several good punches to Spinks' body. Ali's Round.

Round Ten — Both fighters came out with a flurry but Spinks hugged the ropes for the next minute and a half, absorbing several Ali blows. Spinks began fighting back late in the round but not enough to overcome points scored earlier by Ali. Ali's Round.

Round Eleven — Both fighters looking for an opening for the good punch but Ali remained in control with excellent footwork. A couple of flurries saw both fighters landing jabs but Ali came out on top. Ali's Round.

Round Twelve — Ali really began working this round, looking for a spot to put away Spinks. Spinks was defending reasonably well but Ali was landing blows to the body and head. Ali's Round.

(For you scorekeepers, we've now got it five for Ali, four for Spinks and three even.)

Round Thirteen — Ali seemed to relax while Spinks began going back onto the offensive. Spinks was decidedly in control of the round. Spinks' Round.

Round Fourteen — Spinks chased Ali into the ropes landing several good left jabs and an occasional strong right lead. Ali delivered a flurry of punches in the final seconds but Spinks already had the round in the bag. Spinks' Round.

Round Fifteen — Both fighters were visibly tired and Ali seemed to sense that the only way he could win would be with a knockout punch. Ali tried to put Spinks away early but Spinks again came back and landed a couple of damaging punches himself. Ali had an opportunity to put Spinks away later in the round but couldn't seem to muster enough energy to deliver the necessary blows. In the final few seconds, Spinks landed some blows that had a noticeable effect on Ali. Spinks' Round.

FINAL TALLY — Spinks 7, Ali 5, Even 3.

LOCAL ISSUES FORUM

School And Snow

By Ken Wolf

As a parent, I wish to argue simply that our local, city schools should be open—snow or no snow, buses or no buses—whenever our stores, shops and factories are open.

For a total of no more than three working days during January, some Murray businesses and industries were forced to close or work shorter hours due to snow-related problems. During this same period, from January 12 to February 2, the Murray Independent Schools were closed for a total of fourteen working days.

This is excessive and unnecessary "down time," detrimental to the education of our children. Further, the argument advanced by school officials, that the safety of the children required these closings, is not persuasive for several reasons.

First, while the safety of the children might mean that buses should not run on unsafe streets, you do not need buses in order to have school. If the streets are too slick for safe operation of buses, it is my duty as a parent to see that my child gets to school. I can drive them, arrange for transportation with a neighbor or let them walk to the nearest cleared street for a bus ride.

The only reason many children were not in school on many January days was simply that the school buildings were closed.

Second, if it is unsafe for our children to ride or walk to school on icy streets, how safe is it for these same children to be walking, running or driving around town on these same "snow days"? Most Murray children spent far more time on unsafe streets on "snow days" than they would have if the schools had been open. Are trips to basketball games—or to the lake—any safer than trips to our school buildings?

Third, the argument that the safety of our children demands the closing of schools when there is snow or ice on the roads ignores other, equally safe, alternatives. Why not extend the use of staggered opening times to those days when buses cannot run and parents wish to avoid traffic jams near schools? How about allowing parents to drop children off at school at 8 a. m.—or between 8 and 9:30 on "non-bus" mornings?

In addition to stressing the safety factor as an explanation for school closings, Murray school officials have noted that our school system loses state funds when average daily attendance is low.

While this is certainly an important consideration, school officials have assumed that attendance figures would drop close to the feared 80 per cent mark if they opened school on those days when buses could not run. In fact, on one of the few days last month when schools did open without bus service, attendance was reported to be near the 88 per cent figure.

Besides, is the loss of some state money more important than the loss of continuity in a child's education caused by being out of school for over a week at a time?

Are Murray school officials needlessly fearful of alienating those few parents who do expect door-to-door service for their children? Are they too distrustful of the vast majority of parents who would get our children to school—if only the schools were open? Are many of us parents who want schools open more often remiss in not making our views known to Superintendent Jeffrey or to members of the School Board?

All these are questions for all of us to ponder before our next snow season. A recent survey in this Forum suggested that the vast majority of Murrayans think our schools are doing a very good job educating our children. If this is true, isn't that education worth enough for us to make some sacrifices to get our children to school?

Buses are nice; schools are necessary!

Safety and state funds are important; so is the best possible education for our children.

Senate Committee Stalls Bottle Bill

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Legislation that would have banned all disposable beverage containers in Kentucky has been defeated in a Senate committee, but the sponsor may make another attempt to revive the measure.

The proposal was defeated Wednesday by the Senate Committee on Judiciary-Statutes, despite a strong show of public support. The vote on Senate Bill 141 was 3-3, with one pass.

The sponsor, Sen. John Berry, D-New Castle, later asked the Senate to adopt the minority report of the committee, in order to force a floor vote.

LT. Gov. Thelma Stovall, the presiding officer, ruled that it could not be done, and Berry's appeal of her ruling failed by a vote of 19-17.

Berry said he would try to find some other way to revive the so-called "bottle bill."

Supporters of the measure held a brief rally in the Capitol rotunda before the meeting, and packed the Senate galleries for the discussion. Lobbyists for special interest groups opposing the measure also lined the sides of the chamber.

Similar legislation was defeated in previous sessions by powerful business and labor interests.

The measure would require a mandatory deposit on all beverage containers, Berry said. It would reduce litter, save energy and conserve natural resources, he contended.

Peyton Hogue, president of the Kentucky Municipal League and the mayor of Anchorage, said the measure would save taxpayers' money by cutting the cost of cleaning up litter.

He said bottling companies are passing along higher costs of disposable bottle to consumers.

Support for the bill was also expressed by representatives of the Kentucky League of Women Voters, the Kentucky Farm Bureau, conservation groups and the Kentucky Student Government Association.

Bottling and beverage manufacturing interests were represented by John A. Briggs, a former natural resources official from the state of Washington, now a consultant.

Briggs urged the Senate committee not to approve the bottle bill, but to focus instead on another measure, House Bill 253, which he said would address the entire litter problem by educating people not to litter.

He said the bottle bill is a form of litter condemnation, because it would allow people to do what they want with the containers after paying a deposit. He said throwaway bottles and cans represent only 20 to 25 percent of all litter.

Russell Montgomery, a bottler and chairman of the Kentucky Soft Drink Association, said his group supports the other litter bill, which would include an assessment of manufacturers or distributors of products most likely to become litter, to go into a special antilitter fund. That measure has been referred to the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee.

Other opponents of the bottle bill included the Kentucky AFL-CIO, the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, the Kentucky Retail Sales Federation, and the Kentucky Wholesale Dealers Association.

Voting against the bill were Sens. Kelsey Friend, D-Pikeville, Don Johnson, D-Newport, and Gus Sheehan, D-Covington. Sen. Jim Hammond, D-Prestonsburg, did not vote.

Voting for the bottle bill were committee chairman Mike Moloney, D-Lexington, and Sens. Doug Mosely, R-Columbia and Lowell Hughes, D-Ashland.

House Votes To License Counselors

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A House committee has voted over the objections of psychologists in favor of licensing most counselors in Kentucky.

The Health and Welfare Committee voted 14-1 Wednesday in favor of House Bill 162, sponsored by Rep. Jody Richards, D-Bowling Green. Richards told the panel that, under the present law, anyone without the proper education and training can put up a shingle and offer himself to the public as a counselor.

"We need this bill to protect the public," Richards said. Under the proposal, a board of examiners in counseling would be established to license and regulate counselors in private practice. Some professional counselors, such as those employed in the public schools, would be exempt from the law.

The five-member board, would be authorized to set fees for certificates and licenses and to draw up a code of ethics for counselors.

A counselor's license would require a doctoral degree and two years of experience in addition to a passing score on the exam. A certificate could be obtained with a master's degree and no experience.

The measure also would include counselors among those professions entitled to exercise privileged communication with patients or clients.

Dr. Stanley Brumfield, a counseling instructor at Western Kentucky University, told the committee that Kentucky's colleges are educating counselors who can't find jobs because they are not licensed. "The state is providing money to train these people, yet they're denied employment in state agencies," Brumfield said.

But psychologists told the committee the measure would in effect merely set up a state-sanctioned guild for counselors.

"We agree with the intent of the legislation, but we feel it is an attempt to create jobs and not to protect the public," said Dr. J.E. Willett, president of the Kentucky Psychologists Association.

Dr. Dwight Alversheim, a University of Kentucky psychologist and a counseling instructor, said the bill would create problems because the functions of counselors and psychologists often overlap.

Facts About Sleep and Drugs

• Sleep is an interruption of waking consciousness. It may be one of the most essential needs of man. More than one-third of the U.S. population has at some time had a problem sleeping. Following are some often overlooked facts about drugs and sleep, the state in which we try to spend almost one-third of our lives.

• Less sleep is needed as one matures. A 3-year-old will sleep about 10 hours a night; a 25- to 45-year-old, 7 hours; and a 75-year-old, about 6 hours. People often mistakenly attribute this normal change in sleep patterns to insomnia and seek drugs to induce more sleep.

• Changing sleep habits—too much, too little, or interrupted sleep—can be a sign of depression or anxiety, conditions which often require specific treatment.

• Emotional illness is often preceded by troubled sleep.

• Drugs may help on occasion for temporary use, but persistent or continuous use of most sleeping pills may actually hinder sleep.

• If use of sleeping pills continues beyond a few weeks, more and more pills are required at night to achieve the effects of the original dosage. This is called tolerance.

• Sleeping pills are addicting. Sleep problems are usually more severe for a period of time after withdrawal than they were before drugs were used.

• Sleeping pills can distort the sense of time, leading to the accidental taking of fatal doses of drugs during the night.

• Normal brain activity is altered by sleeping pills, causing natural stages of sleep to be skipped or shortened.

• Many insomniacs, when monitored during the night, are found to get sufficient amounts of sleep. Some researchers believe they may actually dream while they are awake.

Since sleeping pills may be harmful, here are some commonsense tips on getting a better night's sleep:

- Stop tossing and turning in bed waiting for sleep to come; use the time for constructive activity.
- Make your surroundings conducive to sleep. If the bedroom is too cold or too hot, it will be distracting. If there's too much noise try earplugs.
- Maintain a regular schedule of going to bed and getting up. The time of day or night is not important, but the consistency is.

- Eliminate daytime naps.
- If you are not tired, it will be difficult to sleep. Exercise, even if it is only a late afternoon or evening walk.
- Eliminate coffee and other caffeine drinks in the hours before bedtime.
- Although a little bit of alcohol before bedtime may help some people relax, large quantities of alcohol will cause sleeplessness.

PROJECT INDEPENDENCE What is Project Independence?

Project Independence is a demonstration project for the elderly in the Jackson Purchase. It is designed to help older persons remain in their own homes as an alternative to entering institutional facilities.

Who is eligible?

Persons who:

1. Are age 60 or older, AND
2. Need services to remain in their homes (such as household chores, meals, health needs, transportation and others), AND
3. Can not get the services from any other source.

Symbolism? When Muhammad Ali walked out of his dressing room, the band at the Las Vegas Hilton played "Pomp and Circumstance."

About the only time you hear that song is at graduations. And that's precisely what last night's title fight was. Only it was Leon Spinks who did the graduating.

Leon Spinks may be the best thing to happen to St. Louis since Bob Gibson. Every since big 45 stepped down, the town has been without a hero. And every town needs a hero.

Why did Leon Spinks win? It was not because Ali was 36 years of age. Ali fought gamely and Spinks took a lot of jabs and a lot of punches that would have severely injured a man of lesser pride.

Why did Leon Spinks win? Because, he had more love.

When you grow up in the ghetto, there are two things you are inured with quickly: love and hate. One force will eat up the other. And Leon Spinks was hungry.

That's why black athletes excel in sports today. They don't have the cars, the country clubs and other social things that distract young white athletes. And that hunger, along with the love, is what won the heavyweight title for Leon Spinks.

Leon Spinks can barely read or write. He's ashamed of it. If Leon Spinks had been destroyed by a 36-year-old Ali in the first round of two, his future would have been as black as the ghetto itself.

Sure, he was guaranteed $300,000 regardless of what happened. But take out income taxes, fees for trainers, agents and what have you plus the money he will undoubtedly give to his family and the total isn't that astounding.

It was his one chance in a million. If he'd been battered then he would have had to start at the basement. And it would be the back seat of a car, shabby motels and smelly gymnasiums that are a way of life to hundreds of fighters who never had the chance Spinks had.

It was that love...he came out of the dressing room earlier to watch his brother, Michael, fight. And when Leon marched out to the tune of the Marine Corps Hymn, Michael met him in the ring and they embraced for a minute.

They were proud of their love for each other. So many people today are afraid to say "I Love You." Leon and Michael didn't have to say it. And once the fight went past the sixth round, it became clear that Leon Spinks would be there for the end, one way or the other.

In the 14th and 15th rounds, he reached within himself and found a supply of strength, as if Michael, who was by ringside, was magically transferring energy to his big brother.

And then in the 15th round, when it seemed Ali had Spinks on the verge of hitting the canvass, Leon staggered the champion with yet another barrage of courage.

It may well go down in history as one of the most memorable rounds. Ali, who knew from the 12th round on that he'd have to win the last rounds decisively or pull off a knockout, fought with all his strength.

But Leon Spinks fought with more. He fought with his strength, his heart, his spirit and with prayers from his mother who was at ringside. And maybe that's what did it. Maybe it was that love.

When it ended, the Spinks' entourage poured into the center of the ring for what they knew would be the greatest upset in boxing history. It was more than "Rocky." And in Ali's corner, it was "Requiem for a Heavyweight."

When the decision was announced, it was a glorious moment of both joy and sadness.

And what did Leon Spinks do?

He acted like a true champion. He said he'd give Ali another shot. But the most impressive thing? His brother was there, in the middle of the scene. And twice, Leon openly poured out his thanks to God, who he said was "the main man."

That's the ghetto. You reach for something to hold. Some reach for drugs, some reach for guns. Some reach for God, some reach for the top of the world and some fall to the bottom.

But few do like Leon Spinks. To have overcome so much and in such a short period of time is truly remarkable.

Ali has had his day. He was a proud champion and a great fighter. But he wasn't hungry.

And that in itself is a lesson in sports. To any athlete who wants to be a success, there are some things you must have: love, faith, talent, desire and above all, hunger.

Everyone can take pride in Leon Spinks. He was the underdog and for those who love underdogs, he gave them what they wanted. He served in the Marines, and for those who detested Ali because of his failure to report for induction, Leon Spinks can give them pride.

For those who didn't like Ali because of his religion, Leon Spinks can give you pride because his may be more familiar to you. And for everyone, there is that eagerness that jumps from the face of the "Toothless Tiger."

Now, we really do have a "People's Champion."

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "I'll be back. I'll be the first man to win the world championship three times," said Muhammad Ali, today a 36-year old challenger for the heavyweight title.

Ali has backed up his boasts many times. But maybe an era really has ended.

Leon Spinks, the 24-year-old with just seven previous pro fights, stripped the title from Ali Wednesday night after applying pressure for 15 rounds. Ali was reeling at the final bell and Spinks gained a split decision.

It was a stunning upset matching Ali's triumph over Sonny Liston when he won the heavyweight title for the first time in 1964 and his knockout of George Foreman when he won it for the second time 10 years later.

"I tried hard," said Spinks and he certainly did, overcoming Ali's advantages in size and experience with grim determination. He never lost his cool as so many of Ali's opponents did in the past. He never was awed.

"I thank God," the new champion said. "God's the main man. Lord knows I tried hard."

"I'll give Ali another chance."

Already, promotional infighting — often more vicious than the fighting in the ring — is under way.

Jose Sulaiman, president of the World Boxing Council, said Spinks, along with Ali, made an agreement that the winner would sign by April 7 for a defense against No. 1-ranked Ken Norton within 90 days of that date. The Norton people know about such an agreement.

"Are you kidding?" said Bob Arum, who promoted Wednesday night's fight and has a promotional contract for Spinks' next six fights.

"Sulaiman is a joke. Spinks will fight somebody respectable next and then fight Ali again. Spinks hasn't agreed to anything."

The battle to provide Spinks' next opponent, if it is not Norton, should be royal. Possible opponents include Bernardo Mercado of Colombia, whom Ali might have fought in defiance of the WBC edict, and South Africans Kallie Knoetze, who recently knocked out Duane Bobick, and Gerrie Coetzee.

It is not considered likely that No. 2-ranked Jimmy Young or the winner of an upcoming fight between Larry Holmes and hard-hitting Earnie Shavers will be in the running as Spinks' next opponent.

"I gave the best I could, said Ali. "I knew he was a good fighter. It was a close fight. He was the aggressor. It could have gone either way."

Judge Art Lurie scored it 143-142 for Ali under the 10-point must system and when his decision was announced, Spinks' handlers looked stunned. But then the announcer read off the cards of Harold Buck, 144-141, and Lou Cabat, 145-140, and announced, "the new heavyweight champion of the world, Leon Spinks."

The Associated Press scored it 143-142 for Ali, but gave Spinks the last three rounds.

The question mark before the fight was Spinks ability to go 15 rounds against a man of Ali's size and vast experience. The longest Spinks had fought previously was 10 rounds and one of those fights, against Scott LeDoux, ended in a draw.

"What surprised me was his strength and stamina," said Ali, who wilted before the brawling Spinks in the final three rounds and who looked much older than 36 at the end.

Ali, trying to make Spinks punch himself out in the early rounds and picking his spots with jabs, hooks and an occasional right lead, still was in the fight after 12 rounds — he was leading on one card and even on another.

But then Spinks, who weighed 197½, 27 pounds less than Ali, and who was at a four-inch reach disadvantage, landed several good hooks and left-right combinations to the head in the 13th round. Spinks' trainer Sam Solomon said he thought Spinks had Ali going in that round but that he was foiled by his inexperience.

Spinks swarmed all over Ali in the 14th and hurt the former champion with a left hook midway through the round. At the end of the round, Ali's left eye was swollen.

The final three minutes were toe-to-toe all the way, with both fighters staggered. Ali was punching desperately but he couldn't keep Spinks off and just before the bell he appeared ready to go down.

Ali's fighting on memory. He's fighting on guts," said Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, a CBS-TV commentator who worked in Ali's corner for many of his fights. At the bell Ali wobbled to his corner, throwing out his left arm in a gesture of "well done."

Spinks' handlers jumped into the ring and joyously slapped the 1976 Olympic light heavyweight champion on the back. Across the ring the 1960 Olympic light heavyweight champion stood with his head down while his aids tended to him.

While Spinks' fans rejoiced, Ali left the ring, a shadow of the man who made "flood for the second time in title bouts.

Ali won the heavyweight title in his 20th pro fight by stopping an aging Liston in seven rounds on Feb. 25, 1964, when Spinks was 11 years old. The only title bout he lost before Wednesday night — he was stripped of the crown in 1967 for failure to accept military draft — was on a decision as a challenger to Joe Frazier March 8, 1971.

It would be an incredible feat to win it again, especially when he would probably be 37 before he gets another chance. But the incredible has often been made routine in the past by Ali. As he was relaxing in his suite two hours after the fight, he said, "He's the champ now. I'm gonna let him have it for a couple of months and enjoy it."

"I shall return."

Murray High Draws Bye For District Tourney

Murray High had the dubious distinction of drawing the bye for the Fourth District Basketball Tournament which will be held March 2-4 at the MSU Sports Arena.

The drawing was held at the Seven Seas Restaurant Wednesday evening with the three boys' coaches and the three girls' coaches from the district on hand.

Tournament action will begin on Thursday, March 2, with a 6:30 p.m. game between the 12-4 Calloway County girls and the 13-1 Marshall County girls. The loser of that game will play at 6:30 Friday against Murray, which drew the bye. The Tiger girls are currently 5-7.

If Murray defeats the loser, then the Tiger girls would play the winner of the first game for the title Saturday evening. If the loser of the first game defeats the Tiger girls, then the tourney is over and the winner of the first game is the champion.

The Calloway County boys, 10-7 on the season, will play the 9-9 Marshall County boys on Thursday, March 2, 20 minutes after the conclusion of the girls' game.

The same format will be followed with the loser playing the Murray High boys, who are 8-9, in the second game Friday.

If there are two games on Saturday, the first contest will begin at 6:30 p.m. If there is only one game Saturday, it will begin at 7 p.m.

The scorer for the tourney is Lee Hook of Murray with Mike Casteel of Marshall County being the alternate. The timer is Carman Parks of Calloway County with the alternate being Dennis Joseph of Marshall County.

Officials have not yet been assigned to the tourney. The first and second-place teams in the district tourney will earn trips to the First Region Tournament. The girls' regional play will be at Mayfield while the boys will play at Murray State.

Racer Tracksters Have Outside Shot At Crown

If the pieces fall together right, the Murray State Track team has an outside chance of winning the Ohio Valley Conference indoor track championship, according to Racer Coach Bill Cornell.

The two-day meet gets underway Thursday from Johnson City, Tenn. Competing for Murray the first day of the meet will be Everton Cornelius and Jeff Hickman long jump; David Warren, Mitch Johnston, David Rafferty and Martyn Brewer, distance medley relay; Cornelius and Charles Bauman, 60 yard dash; Bauman and Tom Mracek, 440 yard dash; Axel Leitmayr, high jump; Steve Crisafulli and Marshall Crawley, 600 yard run; Pat Chimes, Mitch Johnston and Keith O'Meally, 880 yard run; Warren, Rafferty and Brewer, 1600 yard run; and Jeremy Odlin and Brian Rutter in the 3 mile run.

Scheduled for Friday are Hickman in the triple jump; Stan Simmons and Andy Vince, shot put; Warren, Chimes, O'Meally and Johnston, two-mile relay; Rafferty and Brewer, mile run; Odlin and Rutter, two-mile run. Brewer will run in the two-mile unless he qualifies for the 1000 meters final.

The Racer distance medley relay finished second in the Mason-Dixon Games in Louisville, Ky. last weekend. Murray's time of 9:50.1 was three tenths of a second behind winning Tennessee but was good enough to qualify for the NCAA Indoor Championships at Detroit in March. Team members and times for Murray were Johnston 50.5, Warren 1:53.0, Chimes 2:56.3 and Brewer 4:10.5. The relay time set a new Murray school record. The distance medley is the second Racer relay team to qualify for the national championships. Two weeks ago the two-mile relay team qualified at the Indiana Relays.

Simmons set a new school record at Louisville by putting the shot 52' 11". He placed fifth. Vince won the shot put for those under 200 pounds with a throw of 50' 10".

Odlin finished second in the 3000-meter run with a time of 8:20.0 and Rutter was seventh with a 8:33.4.

Murray also had two fourth-place finishes. Leitmayr went 6' 8" in the high jump and Cornelius long jumped 23' 7 1/2".

Three Murray runners were unable to complete. Rafferty and O'Meally were out with the flu and Charleston with a leg injury.

Kansas Wraps Up Big Eight, Wildcats Run By 'Vols, 90-77

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Having won the Big Eight, the Kansas Jayhawks now have their sights set on the big one.

"We have three more goals to go and we're going to get them," freshman guard Darnell Valentine said after the sixth-ranked Jayhawks knocked off Iowa State 80-70 Wednesday night and nailed down the Big Eight crown when runner-up Nebraska obliged by losing to Oklahoma 74-68.

Valentine identified Kansas' next goal as the Big Eight Conference post-season tournament next month. "Then we win the NCAA Regionals and the NCAA finals," he said.

However, the Jayhawks will have plenty of competition for NCAA honors, including third-ranked Kentucky, No. 11 North Carolina, No. 15 Illinois State, No. 16 Syracuse, No. 19 Detroit and No. 20 Duke, all winners Wednesday night.

The only members of The Associated Press Top Twenty to taste defeat were 12th-ranked Texas, a 79-77 loser to Baylor, and No. 17 Virginia, which fell to Clemson 63-55. Kentucky polished off Tennessee 90-77, North Carolina crushed Kent State 92-59, Illinois State turned back Northern Illinois 79-67, Syracuse walloped Buffalo 113-66, Detroit outlasted Western Michigan 113-91 and Duke downed North Carolina State 76-64.

Kansas' Valentine scored 17 points — 12 in the second half — to go with John Douglas' 21, offsetting 25 by Iowa State's Andrew Parker, the Big Eight scoring leader. Kansas let the Cyclones whittle a 25-point deficit to eight before deciding enough was enough.

Kentucky snapped a five-game losing streak to Tennessee and gave Coach Joe B. Hall his 200th career victory. Rick Robey, who scored 18 points, helped the Wildcats stretch a 40-30 halftime bulge to 51-34 with a pair of lay-ups and a free throw.

A coach's job also is to have his team ready and Texas' Abe Lemons took the blame for the Longhorns' upset at the hands of Baylor's Bears.

The setback dropped Texas out of first place in the Southwest Conference as No. 1-ranked Arkansas moved ahead of the Longhorns.

Baylor got the winning points when Jim Vaszauskas sank two free throws with eight seconds left for a 79-75 margin. Vinnie Johnson paced the Bears with 29 points.

Elsewhere:

—Houston beat Texas Tech 81-77 as Cedric Fears and Cecil Rose combined for 37 points, including the last five; Texas A&M whipped Texas Christian 88-72 in a game worked by three officials. The trio whistled 45 fouls but both coaches — A&M's Shelby Metcalf and TCU's Tim Somerville — said they liked the experiment.

—Al Beal's 18 points led Oklahoma past Nebraska and Oklahoma State reeled off 14 consecutive points early in the second half and defeated defending Big Eight champ Kansas State 67-65.

EDDIE MCFARLAND, Murray State University's academic All-America defensive back and 1977 football captain, is shown receiving a $1,500 scholarship awarded to him for postgraduate study by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. Making the official presentation is Dr. Karl Hunsung, a professor of chemistry at Murray State and the faculty's representative to the NCAA. A pre-medicine major and a graduate of Paducah Tilghman High School, McFarland plans to continue his study of medicine at either the University of Kentucky or the University of Louisville following his graduation in the spring. An honor student, he was a starter for the Racers from midway of his freshman year, earning All-Ohio Valley Conference honors the past two years.

CBS Big Winner With Superb Coverage Of Heavyweight Bout

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

CBS found itself a witness to history Wednesday night and brought television viewers across the country just about as close to the remarkable scene as it is possible to do.

The CBS cameras, providing some of the most dramatic and memorable pictures ever of a televised sporting event, brought viewers into the center of the ring as world champion Muhammad Ali, confident in the early going, shrugged off blows and taunted challenger Leon Spinks.

As Ali's situation worsened, the cameras honed in on his corner as trainer Angelo Dundee pleaded with the weary champ: "You gotta go like hell, champ, you gotta go like hell."

And when it was over, when Spinks had finally taken the title, the cameras were there again to catch the pain of the old champ and exhilaration of the new one.

Virtually no one expected it to happen. It was a boxing show designed to pull ratings through the magic of the Ali name. But it turned out to be much more than that. It was a special moment in sports, the end of an era, and CBS recorded the moment brilliantly.

In addition to the usual ringside cameras, CBS employed an overhead camera to great effect. We got a shot of the ring from above, setting the scene, then the camera moved in on the fighters circling each other, then a switch to the corner for remarkable closeups of the infighting, and finally a ringside shot to set the scene again.

Director Frank Chirkanian sent his cameras and microphones into the corners repeatedly to allow viewers to pick up trainer's instructions and catch the fighters between rounds. Inserts showed Spinks cheering his brother Michael on in a preliminary, then showed Michael sweating through the crucial 15th round while Leon struggled to grasp the title.

We got reaction from Ali in an interview immediately after the verdict, then a quick interview with Spinks. In terms of camerawork, use of microphones and quick reaction from the fighters, CBS could not have done better.

Brent Musburger and Dr. Ferdie Pacheco, Ali's long-time physician, called the fight. Musburger is a pro who is both enthusiastic and informative, a tough combination to beat. "Could this be the last time we see Muhammad Ali in the ring," he wondered at the outset. It sounded far-fetched at the time. It doesn't now.

Pacheco may have been a bit too pro-Ali — "If you'd been my doctor as long as you've been Ali's, I'd expect you to pull for me as much as you must be pulling for him," Musburger said — but he was also quite knowledgeable about the fight game. At one point, between the 9th and 10th rounds, the microphones caught Dundee advising Ali that Spinks was ready to fall. "If Spinks is ready to go, he sure doesn't know it," countered Pacheco.

Dibbs Upset

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. — Unseeded Ismail El Shafei of Egypt upset second-seeded Eddie Dibbs 7-5, 6-2 in the second round of a $225,000 men's tennis tournament at Mission Hills Country Club.

In other second-round singles matches, third-seeded Manuel Orantes eliminated Bernie Mitton 6-4, 6-2; No. 4 Raul Ramirez whipped Sherwood Stewart 6-3, 6-0; fifth-seeded Ilie Nastase rallied to top Geoff Masters 6-7, 6-4, 6-3; No. 6 Harold Solomon downed Dick Crealy 6-3, 6-3; Jaimie Fillol beat Marcelo Lara 6-1, 6-4 and Stan Smith nipped Pat DuPre 7-5, 6-7, 7-5.

Ali's Pride May Have Been Speaking As He Talked Of Rematch With Leon Spinks

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — There are times when one realizes that he is sitting in on a transcendent moment in history — even if it be something as inconsequential as sport.

There sat the man the world for 14 years had hailed as "The Champ." It was almost as if there would never be another. Muhammad Ali seemed blessed with some magical power. Boxing's ebony jewel was destined to shine forever.

Ali himself must have thought so. So did his legion of fanatic followers. Yet here he was slumped in a chair in the upstairs dressing room of the Hilton Pavilion, his lower lip pursed with blood, a nasty knot over his right eye, ugly bruises blemishing what he always called "the prettiest face that ever was."

At his feet sat his slim, beautiful wife, Veronica. She stroked his robed, tired muscles. She said nothing. Bundini Brown, a long time aide, cried unashamedly. All of us knew it had to come sooner or later. More recently there had been tell-tale signs. But who dared believe the magnificent era would end with such suddenness.

Ali, the Champ, was beaten by a tough, 24-year-old ex-Marine, Leon Spinks, only seven pro fights under his belt, less than two years out of amateur ranks. Even as the savagely-fought 15-round battle neared its close, the rafters of the gilded casino arena rocked with familiar shouts.

"Ali! Ali! Ali!" The fight was close. The kid was tough. But everybody at ringside knew that, as he had done so many times in the past, the great Muhammad would call upon some invisible reservoir of strength and rescue the decision in the final round.

Ali recognized the possible consequences. His 36-year-old legs tiring, his body surrendering to aches and pains, he plunged headlong into the fight — jabbing, lashing out with his lightning rights, hanging on.

This time, as so many others had done, his young adversary didn't fold. Instead, Spinks lashed back, giving two punches for every one he absorbed, backed Ali into his own corner and almost finished him before the final bell.

Indisputably, it was Spinks' fight. Boxing had a new heavyweight champion.

In the fourth row, Kay Spinks, raised a red-covered Bible and said, "Hallelujah, God be praised."

There was a sadness about the scene — and a beauty. "Surprised you, didn't he?" Ali needed the few reporters who crashed his dressing room. "Surprised me, too. I underestimated his will to win and his stamina."

"I thought I could tire him out in the early rounds and then beat him. My plan didn't work. Next time I'll be in better shape. I will be down to 215 (he weighed in at 224½), I'll stay in the corners and I'll come out fast in the first round like I did in the 15th."

Next time, Ali? Will there be a next time?

"I will be back," the deposed champion promised. "I will be the first heavyweight champion to win the title three times."

The boast seemed to float away with the smell of arnica.

The old order passeth, making way for the new.

Muhammad Ali has given us many memorable moments and unending entertainment, not only with his remarkable boxing skills but also with his fourth-grade poetry, boyish charm and ability to mesmerize peasants and potentates alike.

Spinks, a bearded youth with two big gaps in front of his mouth where teeth used to be, bull stubborn and bulldog tough, is the new champion.

He took the fight to the champion, a great but aging champion, and made the king eat leather. Long live the new king.

Ali Made Mistake By Selling Spinks Short

By PATRICK ARNOLD
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Leon Spinks surprised a lot of people, including Muhammad Ali.

"Hell yes, he surprised me," Ali said following the loss of the heavyweight boxing title he had held for the past 14 years.

"You know he surprised me, and I'm in there," Ali said following the 15-round bout he lost by a close decision at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel Pavilion. "You're sitting over there drinking beer and you're shocked, and I'm in there getting my butt kicked."

By all accounts, the 24-year-old ex-Marine and Olympic gold medal winner shouldn't have gone the distance. The fight was only his eighth professional bout.

"That man was the most aggressive," Ali said. "He threw the best punches."

Spinks, though taking the title from Ali, showed a low profile at the post-fight news conference, leaving most of the talking to the former champion.

"It feels good, very good," Spinks said. "I was really ready for him. I had to train hard to beat a great man."

Spinks allowed as how the win was "my second goal — my first was winning the Olympics."

Spinks had been the new champion for only a few minutes before the action began.

Bob Arum, head of Top Rank Inc., which promoted the Ali-Spinks fight, announced that he had a contract with the new champion "for his next six title defenses."

Arum wouldn't say how much money was involved but said it was in "a very good neighborhood ... it starts at seven figures."

And Larry Holmes, a ranked heavyweight contender who faces Earnie Shavers next month, said he felt he was "the only man in the world who deserves a shot" at Spinks.

Ali made a mistake and "sold Spinks a little short," said Holmes, adding that Spinks had "beat the shell of Muhammad Ali."

"He sure proved you all wrong," Ali told the assembled newsmen. "I'm glad of that."

Donald White Signs With Murray State

Murray State Football Coach Mike Gottfried has announced the signing of Donald White, 17, a linebacker from Woodward High School, Cincinnati, Ohio, to an Ohio Valley Conference letter-of-intent with Murray State University.

White, a 6'2", 200 pounds, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, 1863 Dalewood, Cincinnati, Ohio. He won all-city, all-district and all-state honorable mention in 1977, when his team posted a 6-3-1 record. His teammates also voted him to the team's most valuable lineman of the year.

White's signing by assistant coach Bill Baldrige brings to 9 the number of football recruits signed to date by the Racers.

TENNIS

NEW YORK — The famed West Side Tennis Club lost the ancient U.S. Open but has gained a fledgling invitational event, so far unnamed, that will assemble 12 male professionals this July and be worth $300,000.

Lamar Hunt, the organizer of World Championship Tennis, won out over two rival groups to form a doubles team with the West Side Tennis Club and keep the sport at quaint Forest Hills.

Sign Pitcher

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins Wednesday announced the signing of pitcher John Minarcin, a 13th round draft choice in the free agent draft.

Minarcin, a 21-year native of Oneonta, N.Y., is a 6-foot-2 right-hander who attended Ithaca College. He was assigned to Wisconsin Rapids in the Midwest League.

Seminar Set On Smoke Detectors

FRANKFORT — Control Administration's public education office and the National Fire Academy will conduct the seminars.

"The goal of this seminar is to train fire service personnel and others so they can help in their communities' fire prevention programs," said Bob Estep, state fire marshal.

"The seminar provides information on smoke detectors which, if used correctly, can reduce fire life losses and injuries."

There is no charge for the seminar and any interested person can pre-register by contacting Jim Klosterman, deputy fire marshal, at (502) 564-3626 or Bruce R. Pirlinger, supervisor of the fire service training program, Bureau of Vocational Education, at (502) 564-3775.

The Lexington seminar will be Tuesday, Feb. 21, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fire Department Training Center, 1375 Old Frankfort Pike. The Madisonville seminar will be Wednesday, Feb. 22, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Health Occupations Annex, Madisonville State Vocational School, 701 North Laffoon-St.

MSU Scholarship Recognizes Vincent

A scholarship program has been established at Murray State University by the Morgan-Haugh Clinic at Mayfield in memory of the late Bertie L. Vincent, a prominent businessman and community leader.

Two scholarships of $500 each will be awarded annually to high school seniors in Mayfield or Graves County wishing to major in marketing-retail merchandising at the university.

The initial awards will be made for the fall, 1978, semester, and application forms may be obtained from guidance counselors at the Mayfield or Graves County high schools.

A charter member of the Liberty Savings Bank, Vincent was a retail clothing merchant in Mayfield for more than 40 years. He was a member of the Mayfield school board for more than 20 years and active in many community affairs. He died Jan. 4, 1977.

Mrs. Vincent, the former Oma Barton of Folsomdale, and their son, Dr. Jack Vincent, are Mayfield residents. Dr. Vincent was a college teacher and administrator for more than 20 years before returning to Mayfield recently to make his home.

Market Hog Show Is Set February 21

The West Kentucky Market Hog Show, formerly the West Kentucky Barrow Show, will be held Tuesday, February 21, at the West Kentucky Livestock Show and Exposition Center at Murray State University.

The show is open to all Future Farmers of America and 4-H Club members as well as purebred and commercial swine producers across Kentucky. This year, either barrows or gilts may be entered, according to Dr. Charles Chaney, a professor of agriculture at the university and the campus coordinator for the event.

The hogs will be received at the center from 6 until 10 a. m. Tuesday. The on-foot-judging by Alvin Tingle, a Hampshire breeder from Eminence, Ky., will begin promptly at 10:30 a. m.

A market hog judging contest will be held at the conclusion of the on-foot show. This contest is open to all adults, 4-H and FFA members in the area. Dr. Chaney said, emphasizing that participation in the show and judging contests have been excellent over the years, particularly on the part of the youth.

Once judged live, the hogs will be taken to the Reelfoot Packing Company in Union City, Tenn., to be slaughtered and their carcasses graded. Since this year's show involves both barrows and gilts, all animals entered must be slaughtered, Chaney said.

Dr. York Varney, meat extension specialist at the University of Kentucky, will judge the carcasses and the winning ones announced Thursday at an awards banquet in Winslow Cafeteria on the campus, beginning at 6:30 p. m.

The show, one of the highlights of the year in the university's agriculture department, is sponsored jointly by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the university and the Extension Service and State Vocational Agriculture Department.

Carroll Package Kills Utility Tax Measure

CLASSIFIED ADS

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The exemption of the state sales tax from utility bills is apparently dead for this session of the General Assembly, losing out to an administration energy stamp-style program.

The state Senate Wednesday voted to recommit two bills calling for the sales tax exemption to the Appropriations and Revenue Committee, a move seen as killing them.

The fate of the sales tax exemption — which had been a major issue in several legislative races last fall — was sealed when its major backer, Sen. Ed Ford, D-Cynthiana, made the motion to recommit.

Ford, who was able to marshal enough support last Friday to defeat a similar move, conceded he did not have the votes to pass the bills and released those senators obligated to vote with him.

"We have talked long and hard on the utility sales tax," Ford said. "I do not have the votes to pass Senate Bill 100 today. I have put a lot of people on the spot and I now release my good friends."

An amendment to Senate Bill 100, which would have removed a form of double taxation where school taxes are applied to utility bills, called for the sales tax exemption.

A similar amendment was attached to a House-passed bill granting exemption from the sales and use tax to gasoline and other fuels used in farm tractors. That bill was also recommitted.

The sales tax removal had been opposed by Gov. Julian Carroll, who said it would cost too much and would not benefit the low-income people who most need tax relief.

Carroll had released his alternative to the tax removal, a fuel cost supplement program, earlier in the day. That program would make annual payments of $40 to $100 to needy families.

While Ford had been able to keep the measures from being recommitted Friday, enough senators switched to support a leadership move to delay a vote until Wednesday.

The delay was to give Carroll time to reveal his alternative plan, which caused Ford to lose his support.

Sen. David Karem, D-Louisville, who switched Wednesday, said he thought Ford had made a good effort to provide relief to Kentuckians for their rising fuel bills, but he also felt the administration had made a conscientious effort to grant relief.

While Ford conceded the death of his efforts and admitted Carroll's proposal had potential, he promised "this will be an issue again two years from now."

Sen. Larry Hopkins, R-Lexington, said he also had no argument at this time with Carroll's proposal, but he thought the senators owed a moral obligation to the citizens of the state to vote on the utility tax exemption.

The Senate Wednesday also passed a bill to place tighter restrictions on persons offering get rich quick business opportunities.

The measure, recommended by the governor's Consumer Advisory Council, would require persons offering nonchain business ventures to register with the state, post a bond and would grant persons buying such opportunities a 30-day cooling off period in which they could cancel the deal.

Let's Stay Well Spine Fractures Managed With A Cast And Early Exercise

Q: Mrs. N. W. asks about the treatment her son received for a recent fracture of one of his lumbar vertebrae while skiing. He was disabled at first because of pain and had to be in a hospital for a few days. Then he was placed in a cast and soon allowed to be up and about and out of the hospital.

She is worried about his standing up on his feet so soon and fears that his spine may later be deformed and painful.

Mrs. N. W. asks, "How can the bone heal properly when he is using his spine and moving about?"

A: Judging from the description, your son fractured the body or front part of his lumbar vertebra, but the arches in the back part of the vertebra were not broken, as often occurs in these injuries. The body of the vertebra is cracked or crushed such as by falling on the buttocks and "compressing" the spine. The location of the fracture can be seen on X-rays.

In treating such cases, the weight bearing is shifted to the unbroken parts of the vertebra by overextending the spine forward. (The small of the back is bent forward so that the front of the spine is convex forward.) A cast is placed around the body from the pelvis up to the chest to hold the spine in this hyperextended position.

Such a cast is often a burden to wear. However, it relieves the pain and allows the patient to be up and about while the front of the vertebra is healing. In about six weeks, the cast is removed and is replaced by a back brace which is worn for an additional period of six to eight weeks.

X-rays can be made to check the progress of the healing of the fracture.

If bed rest had to be continued throughout the extended healing period, the patient's muscles would weaken from lack of exercise, and complications from clots in the veins of the legs and pelvis would tend to give trouble. The psychological benefits of being up and about, even with a plaster cast, are obvious. Early ambulation and a short hospital stay reduces the cost of care.

Experience shows that this treatment usually heals such fractures satisfactorily without significant deformity or chronic pain, depending on the severity of the injury.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

By The Associated Press
NATIONAL
FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—A 20-foot length of fuse and a black stain on the snow are evidence in what state troopers say is the second attempt to blow up the trans-Alaska pipeline. A sabotage attempt last summer did not even dent the $7.7 billion pipe, but on Wednesday a hole was blown in the 48-inch steel line. Thousands of barrels of thick Prudhoe Bay crude oil — no exact figure was available — gushed over the tundra for hours.

WASHINGTON (AP)—While the Carter administration may be set in its plans, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan is still conveying his government's concern over the proposed sale of jet fighters to Egypt and Saudi Arabia. Dayan will be in Washington today with a tight, nine-hour schedule that includes a meeting with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, a brief courtesy call on President Carter, a news conference and a meeting with members of Congress.

INTERNATIONAL
LONDON (AP)—The Rhodesian guerrillas and African governments backing them condemned the agreement between Prime Minister Ian Smith and three moderate black leaders for majority rule in Rhodesia. The U.S. government was cool, but it and the British governments may come under intense pressure at home to approve it. "It will not work. The war continues. We know who the enemies are," said guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo at his headquarters in Zambia after the agreement was announced Wednesday in the Rhodesian capital of Salisbury.

'Eagle Weekend'

Reservations

Still Accepted

GOLDEN POND, KY.—Reservations are still being accepted for the 9th Annual Eagles Weekend at Lake Barkley State Resort Park, Friday through Sunday, February 24-26, 1978.

Sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Parks in conjunction with the Land Between The Lakes, TVA's public demonstration area in western Kentucky and Tennessee, the weekend will include guided field trips to the isolated bays and inlets of Land Between The Lakes to search for the majestic bald and golden eagles which winter in the area.

Dr. Jeff Lincer, the first director of the National Wildlife Federation's Raptor Information Center, Washington, D.C., will deliver the keynote presentation Saturday evening. Other program features will include presentations by Marilyn Williamson, Regional Naturalist, Tennessee Division of Parks and Recreation; and V. L. Childs, Refuge Manager, Tennessee National Wildlife Refuge.

Preregistration for this special weekend is suggested. Registration forms and additional information are available from Land Between The Lakes, TVA, Golden Pond, KY. 42231, telephone (502) 924-5602, or for lodging information write or call Lake Barkley State Resort Park, Route 2, Cadiz, KY. 42211, telephone (502) 924-1171.

Atkins Says Funding Issue 'Much Bigger Than Politics'

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—State Auditor George Atkins told a legislative committee today that the administration's proposed budget makes his office dependent on those it audits and would not save money.

In remarks prepared for a hearing by the joint Appropriations and Revenue Committee, he tried to show by various exhibits that it should recommend restoration of normal money for his operations.

Atkins said the administration plan "takes the funds and the responsibility of insuring independent audits from the General Assembly and a constitutional officer elected by the people and places them in the hands of the executive branch."

The auditor said "there are no justifications for changing the funding method of his agency."

He said Gov. Julian Carroll has cut the suggested $2.8 million appropriations to only $100,000 for the next biennium.

Carroll has responded that Atkins can obtain the money from agencies he audits, that he would support legislation forcing such agencies to pay him and that the state would save direct taxpayer money because agencies would use money raised from fees to finance audits.

"The real issue is the independence and integrity of a constitutional officer," the auditor said in an interview.

"There are those who would make it appear to be a political fight—the governor trying to get Atkins—and that may very well be. But it's bigger than that."

"There have been reports that Carroll might testify later before the appropriations committee."

But Gary Auxier, his press secretary, said the governor has not been invited and does not plan to appear.

Weeks ago, Carroll told the committee informally he would be happy to testify if invited on important matters.

More significantly, the governor said recently he would abide by the legislators' decision on the Atkins controversy.

"If in fact the governor is sincere in this pronouncement, I'm very optimistic on having my funds restored," Atkins said. "If not, then the politics are against me."

Atkins, a potential anti-

Ruling Star Lodge To

Hold Meeting Monday

Ruling Star Lodge No. 51 Free and Accepted Mason will meet Saturday, Feb. 18, at seven p.m. at the lodge hall.

Work will be in the first degree, according to a spokesman for the lodge, who urge all members to attend.

administration Democratic candidate for governor, said he plans to tell the appropriations committee that the burden of proof is upon a person proposing to show his changes are beneficial.

"Our presentation will show it is not in the best interest of the taxpayers or (our) constitutional office to make the change suggested by the governor," Atkins said.

He said he plans to outline in detail how his program for funding the office is best.

Asked if he were lobbying among legislators, the auditor said he has "talked with quite a few" and asked them "to keep an open mind on the subject."

He said a number of lawmakers have told him, without being solicited, that "they are getting quite a bit of mail and calls in support of proper funding for our office."

Supper Saturday At

Good Shepherd Church

A chili supper will be held Saturday, Feb. 18, at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

Serving will start at six p.m. and the event is sponsored by the United Methodist Church Women. No charge will be made but donations will be accepted, a church spokesman said.

Murray Postoffice To Close Monday

The Murray Postoffice will be closed Monday, Feb. 20, in observance of the national holiday, George Washington's birthday, according to Cleo Sykes, assistant postmaster.

Only special and perishable items will be delivered, but no rural or city mail delivery will be made. Service windows will be closed, but the lobby will be open for postoffice box patrons to get their mail which will be in the boxes by ten a.m. and stamps may be purchased at the stamp machines in the lobby.

Mail from the white star boxes will be collected at two p.m. and the mail will be dispatched from Murray at four p.m., Sykes said.
